

What are EBA country profiles?

EBA country profiles provide an in-depth analysis of the biogas and biomethane sectors in specific European countries. It takes the form of a comprehensive report, including up to date information drawn from European and national specialised sources, facts and figures and statistics, in order to highlight the countries' specificities. It usually focuses on the country's energy mix, feedstock, biogas and biomethane production, gas network and vehicles, as well as related legislation. Country profiles also include national prospects and potential developments, helping readers identify opportunities on international markets.

Why sponsoring a country profile?

Our country profiles reach a wide range of stakeholders, from European and national institutions to companies, experts from academia, and media. They are available for all EBA members, and interested parties can purchase it. Printed copies are also regularly made available at EBA events.

Our sponsorships opportunities allow your organisation to increase its visibility on European markets, by advertising your artwork and printing your logo on country profile copies.
